Giclée Fine Art Reproduction —

Giclée printing is a new method of printing fine art reproductions which combines the newest advances in printing technology and the long-standing printmaking tradition of rendering one image at a time with individual handwork and attention.

Because each particle of color in a giclée is defined by microscopic droplets of ink, a giclée is able to capture the fine details and subtle nuances of the original painting. The colors of a giclée reproduction are amazingly vibrant and deep, its texture lush and velvety since the printer is able to exert a sensitive control over resolution and balance, hue and saturation.

Each giclée in this edition of Mandatum by G.E. Mullan is printed on 100% rag archival fine art paper with environmentally safe inks.
